Richmond Should Be On Main Line Highway

Good Roads Penetrate Contra Costa County

Contra Costa county is well equipped with good roads, said to be among the best in the state. Both the tunnel route through Berkeley hills and the highway via Albany and El Cerrito are excellent roads, and travel over them is increasing daily. New "feeders" and outlet facilities must soon be provided for the traveling public to relieve congestion.

The proposed Panhandle which cuts the northeast corner of El Cerrito hill at the county line, should be pushed through to Cutting boulevard at Pullman.

This improvement would not only shorten the mileage to Richmond and to the ferries but would minimize repairs and distribute the wear and tear on the macadam.

The short strip of paving in El Cerrito at the junction of Cutting and San Pablo avenues is in bad condition, and El Cerrito cannot spare the $6000 to install new paving. In fact, this 700 feet of roadway is of little benefit to El Cerrito, being over two miles from the business center of that city, and is seldom used by El Cerritos.

By improving the Panhandle, giving vehicular travel a direct route from Albany to Richmond and points north, there would be a saving in mileage and a big advertising benefit for Richmond.

The main highway, instead of running easterly and from Richmond, would pass directly through that city. It would be a big factor in developing the waterfront and increasing property values along the bay shore.

Hanna Is Promoted; Goes to Main Office in San Francisco

R. W. Hanna, the well known manager of the local Standard Oil plant, has been made a director of the company with headquarters at S. F. The board of directors has been increased from seven to ten members.

Richmond's Enlarged Library

Richmond's library, enlarged by a splendid addition that increases the capacity of the building nearly 100 per cent, is one of the best in central California, and is conceded by visitors from other states to be far ahead of libraries in many cities twice the size of Richmond.

Much credit is due Miss Cora McNeill, librarian, whose executive endowment has especially fitted her for the position she so capably fills.

Patrons of the library appreciate her efforts and the success attained in giving Richmond a library second to none, compared to cities of like size.

THE GREEDY BEAST

Mr. Longstuff—I give you an allowance for the table. Why can't you feed me as well as you do that miserable little dog?

His Wife—Would you actually take the food out of my precious little Pompon's mouth?

Wilson Ill Again

Former President Wilson is reported ill and under the care of his physician.

Michael H. Hurley Is Dead at His Home in Martinez

County Recorder Michael H. Hurley is reported dead at his home in Martinez.

Although particulars are meager at this hour as to the cause of his sudden passing, it is known that "Mike," as he was familiarly known, has been in ill health for the past year; but he was a game fellow and held on tenaciously to the last with the hope that health would return.

He was one of the old-time printers of the bay region, and previous to his election as county recorder followed the art preservative, and was a loyal member of the craftsmen's organization. He also was a member of the Richmond Lodge of Elks and several other fraternal orders.

There will be many tears trinkle down the cheeks of "Mike's" old friends of the printer's craft when the sad news of his passing reaches them, for he was beloved by all.

Those who survive him are his wife and three children, and a brother and sister.

He was 54 years of age and a native of Massachusetts.

JIM BRIDGER AT SALT LAKE

Spaniards Knew of It but No Record They Visited It Before 1825.

The existence of the Great Salt lake of Utah was known to the early Spaniards through stories told them by the Indians, but there is no trustworthy account of any of them having seen it. To Jim Bridger, famous mountaineer and scout, is accorded the honor of having been the first white man to look upon its brackish waters, says the Detroit News. He discovered it in the winter of 1824-5, accidentally, in deciding a wager. It appears that a party of trappers, encamped one day on Bear river, had a discussion relative to the probable course of the river. Bridger was sent out to determine the question. After he had paddled a long distance he came out on Great Salt Lake, whose water he tasted and found it salt. He retraced his journey and reported the result to his companions. No more authentic account of the discovery of the Great Salt lake can be found.

WINGED TORPEDO FOR U. S.

Although the tests have been shrouded in secrecy, it has become known that army and navy experts have been developing a winged death-dealer—an air torpedo, that runs under its own power. Its stopping point can be accurately fixed, it is said, and its explosion timed. The device will not operate by radio control, though experiments have been made along that line. Use of the wireless was discarded, as it was feared that a torpedo so controlled, would also be sensitive to influence coming from other directions and might become a "boomerang" by being turned back upon its operators.

—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SIMPLE REMINDER

Smith is a young lawyer, clever in many respects, but very forgetful. He had been sent to a distant city to interview an important client, when the head of his firm received this telegram: "Have forgotten name of client. Please wire at once."

The reply he received was a masterpiece of sarcasm, irony, or something. It ran "Client's name Jenkins. Your name Smith."

"I Saw It in THE TERMINAL."

December Was Banner Month For Postal Revenues

Washington, Feb. 1.—Never in the history of the U. S. postal service have revenues equalled those of last December. Fifty selected cities show December, 1923, postal business to be 7.55 per cent over 1922, and 16 per cent over 1912.

The greatest percentage of increase was made by Los Angeles, which reported 22.43 per cent more business than in December, 1922. Indianapolis was second with a gain of 17 per cent, and Louisville and Nashville tied for third place.

Other cities with a gain of over 10 per cent were Toledo, Des Moines, Detroit, Brooklyn, St. Paul, New Orleans and Omaha.

Bandit Got Left

The attempted holdup of a street car crew at Garrard avenue and the Santa Fe crossing yesterday morning resulted in the bandit getting a nick in his scalp from a bottle of coffee thrown by the conductor, which knocked the holdup off the car and his failure in getting the conductor's "sack." But the bandit made his getaway with his gun that failed to fire.

SCENE IN OLD CHARLESTON

Courtyard, Broken Marble Stair, Gnarled Old Fig Tree, Child and Lizard.

From the corner of the courtyard a broken marble stair goes up the wall, every cranny fringed with dull green ferns and violets. Deep-rooted in the broken well, a peach tree, thick as a man's wrist, nurtured in sterile masonry, and springing in strange luxuriance from the cranny, stands green against the bulged facade. The gnarling old fig tree's horned boughs, mingled with traceries of acacia and ragged columns of Spanish bayonet, stand dreaming in the flood of unendurable light, brightly silhouetted against the sky.

Here, in the ovenlike alcove, on a branch of a flowering almond, a mantis sits, busy at its pagan prayers; a lizard the color of an emerald darts up the wall without a sound, and vanishes into a crack; the crevices rustle with the restless motion of the scurrying hosts of the red cedar; innumerable flies hang in the air, quivering points of gold; a lethargic cat . . . lies motionless in the dust; there moves in the alcove only a slim brown child, a slender, exquisite statue of bronze, teasing a lizard upon a labrum.

The broken rosettes of yellow stucco, the green-slatted jalousies screening the privacy of windows too much exposed, the beauty of the grape-myrtle which waves over the wall its garlands of rose and green, are touched with a wordless fantasy.

MODERN IMPROVEMENTS

A New Yorker was spending a night at a hotel in a southern town, and when going to his room for the night he told the colored porter that he wanted to be called early in the morning. The porter replied: "Say, boss, I reckon yo' all ain't familiar with these heah modern inventions. When yo' wants to be called in de mawnin', all yo' has to do is to press de button at de head of yo' bed. Den we comes up an' calls yo'."

WISDOM OF ANCIENTS

Gertie (referring to her fiance)—George's sudden mania for cocktails is making me anxious, granny. Granny—I shouldn't worry, dear. After all, it can't last long. He'll have to give it up when the mounting season starts.

The reply he received was a masterpiece of sarcasm, irony, or something. It ran "Client's name Jenkins. Your name Smith."

"I Saw It in THE TERMINAL."

Automobile Dealers of City Organize For Protection

An informal meeting was held Monday night at Martin's Grill by the automobile men of the city, when garage, battery and tire dealers gathered around the dining tables of this popular eating place and formed a temporary organization, the object of which is for the mutual benefit in sales and prices, an organization for protection.

Nearly all the local dealers and mechanics who are engaged in business relating to motor vehicles were present.

L. M. Johnson acted as chairman and speeches were made by a number of prominent men connected with the automobile business.

All automobile men are invited to join the local organization or club.

Would Probe Air Service

A sweeping investigation of the air service has been demanded by Representative Nelson, (Rep.) of Wisconsin.

RELIKS OF ANCIENT PLUMBER

That plumbers who plied their trade in Egypt more than 5,000 years ago employed copper in their work, is proved, according to authorities, by a pipe made of the red metal found at Giza near the tomb of an ancient king. A bronze bathtub was also discovered in Italy, where it had been buried by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in 76 A. D., and it will still hold water. The enduring qualities of alloys containing copper are also shown in a bronze figure of "The Flight of Time," known to date from the Sixth century, and the famous snake column of Constantinople that has been exposed to the wear of elements since 479 A. D.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

NOT RAINING YET:

It was the dear old lady's first ride in a taxi and she watched with growing alarm as the driver continually put his hand outside the car as a signal to the traffic following. At last she became exasperated.

"Young man," she said, "you look after that car of yours and watch where you're driving. I'll tell you when it starts raining."—Everybody's.

A LA TOMBSTONE

Stranger—Is your society here very select? Arizona Al—See them graves over that? They was all filled by sellers who came to our dances without invitashuns.—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE MARTYR'S CROWN

She—A penny for your thoughts. Mr. Staytale—I was thinking of going.

Her Father (at head of stairs)—Give him half crown, Viola—it's worth it!

PRIDE OR WISDOM?

"I am trying to find a lady whose name I have forgotten," said the stranger at the door, "but I know she lives in this neighborhood. She is a woman easily described, and perhaps you know her—a singularly beautiful creature, with pink and white complexion, lovely eyes and hair such as a goddess might envy."

"Really, sir, I don't know," replied the servant.

"Jane, tell the gentleman I'll be down in a minute," came a voice from the head of the stairs.

WOMAN IN POLITICS

"What is it, Lucile?" "Man at the door." "I have no old clothes and no cold victuals." "He merely wants your vote, mum."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Y" to Establish Their Building at 13th and Macdonald

Plans are being perfected for housing Richmond Y. M. C. A. in a temple of its own. According to advance reports the building will be at 13th and Macdonald, and will be two stories.

"Politics Make Queer Bedfellows"

There is a "peculiar political atmosphere condition" prevailing throughout the country, which is quite noticeable in the Golden State of California. With a native son candidate out for presidential honors, the "soft pedal" is utilized by many who in former campaigns were inclined to show their hands.

We have a number of dyed-in-the-wool democrats who have registered as republicans and are waving the banner for President Coolidge. There may be an object in "switching," a forecasting movement that may be "profitable as well as appealing."

Political Paragraphs

An optimist is one who believes that politics will pass the age of bulk in about twenty years.

If you are awake to political maneuvering and tricks, you can readily pick out the candidate who intends to make the race, and the candidate who is in it for "advertising purposes."

Many of the bell weathers, including newspapers, are waiting to see which band wagon to climb onto. The Coolidge bus is acquiring a good momentum, and looks like a safe vehicle.

On account of the great number of candidates there may be a good chance for a hat checking concession.

The lamb and the lion will lie down together when the lamb hasn't anything the lion wants.

The league of nations has now taken up daylight saving, and its next subject of adjustment may be the right date to put on the heavy ones.—Boston Transcript.

Just how successful the Bok peace plan movement is as a means toward peace remains to be seen.

But as a vehicle for propaganda it's full of promise.

Uncle Sam wouldn't be isolated long if some of those European nations thought they could come over and lick him.—Toledo Blade.

One third party movement that is gaining in favor is the protection of the party of the third part in the war between labor and capital.

It is Prof. Paul Marce, a scientist of note. It is a question of science training the centers of audition, situated in the middle ear, so that they will pick up vibrations through the skull or through the mouth and nasal passages, all based on the principle of many electric devices.

WOMAN'S NEW PROFESSION

That several hundred young women are studying oral hygiene, or hygiene of the mouth, in order to fit themselves as assistants to dentists is revealed by a survey among the colleges. The dental profession has advanced so rapidly the last twenty years that trained and capable assistants are now demanded instead of the mere "office girl" who at one time was the laboratory assistant and reception committee as well.

"True," said the other man, "I have been a wanderer."

"But you shall have it now. To see that you get this $1,000 has been the dream of my life. I'll just give you a ninety-day note."

Very few persons who are killed at grade crossings were on their way to church.

Important Federal Position Finally Filled

Courts Are Congested In "Immaculate" Angel City

Frederick L. Esola Is Appointed U. S. Marshal

Martinez, Feb. 1.—Gov. F. W. Richardson has designated Supervisor Judge H. V. Alvarado to preside in one of the departments of the superior court in Los Angeles during the month of April.

Notwithstanding that there are 28 superior judges in Los Angeles county, court business there has increased to such an extent that the governor has been appealed to for help.

Goat Owners Are Limited to Two

The council Monday night decided to limit the number of goats that a family may have, two being the number named. This was done after some debate and hearing complaints of citizens, a number of whom were embittered by long persecution, or "goat nuisance."

Effective Advertising

Advertising in the local newspaper has proven of value not only to the seller but also to the buyer in that it makes for fair prices and stabilized values. Successful merchants will tell you that spasmodic advertising does not "bring home the bacon." Sustained advertising, however, at times, brings success, and one has only to cast his eye over his home newspaper to convince him of this fact.

The consistent advertiser whose merchandising undertakings have been successful, will tell you that the newspaper "sold it for him," and that billboards, movie screens and dead wall publicity will never be dangerous competitors of the home newspaper which is read and re-read by the entire family, and often the neighbors, until it is worn out.

The newspaper is always in evidence, while the other kind, referred to above, is out of sight out of mind.

That Man May Not Starve

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN

COL. WILLIAM BOYCE THOMPSON has already spent several of his millions and will spend several more on the Thompson Institute of Plant Research near his home in Yonkers, N. Y., with the purpose that man shall not perish from the face of the earth from lack of food.

Colonel Thompson and the scientists he has associated with the institute say that by 1950 the people of the United States will have to watch their steps lest the next generations go hungry. They figure that in twenty-five years the population of the country and the food capacity of the land—as now farm-worked—will be equal.

In the next century these experts visualize the extinction of the human race unless impending destruction of plant life is averted.

This group of scientists is not alone in casting an anxious glance toward the future. The scientific world in general seems to be concerned about the food supply of the future. For example, Dr. Ross Aiken Gortner, head of the biochemistry division of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, in a paper before the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its recent meeting urged that science endeavor to solve a worldwide food shortage problem that threatened not very far in the future. He said that it cannot be more than a few generations before the world will have more mouths than it can feed, unless something is done.

Not content with the practical advance already made by science, the scientists with large vision have been looking a long way ahead into the future. J. B. S. Haldane of Cambridge, Eng., in looking ahead to 2128 sees the world breeding a strain of nitrogen-fixing bacteria which will serve as a powerful and universal fertilizer.

The late Charles P. Steinmetz, the American electrical wizard, went farther and predicted the breeding in laboratories of new types of nitrogen-fixing bacteria which would in themselves be highly palatable and nutritious protein and the staple food of the human race.

The scientists of the Carnegie Foundation go still farther. They are working in laboratories at Tucson and Carnegie on the study of chemical processes by which plants take carbon from the air. They hope science will learn how to take food directly from the air without the aid of bacteria, higher plants or animals.

Almost without exception the scientists concerned about the food of the future assume that the world will be so densely populated that every inch will be needed for agriculture and that there will be no room for food animals. Steinmetz suggested that any available surface be given the earth. He planned underground protein farms.

Locates Fires on Ships

An ingenious device for detecting and locating fires on ships at sea is embodied in the Rich smoke detector, an English invention.

Pipes, communicating with all parts of the vessel, are led into a glass-enclosed chamber in which a vacuum pump is constantly at work, thus drawing air from every part reached by the pipes. Should a fire start at any point, the smoke is drawn into the chamber, a beam of light crosses above the pipe, against which the smoke is plainly visible.

The pipes are numbered, so that the observer knows instantly where the fire is by noting from which pipe the smoke emerges. Below the vacuum chamber is a system of levers which control three-way valves; each lever controls a valve feeding a part of the ship corresponding to the numbering of the pipes. By pulling a lever steam is forced into the part which is burning, effectively quenching the blaze.

FOOD FOR THE INVALID

When serving an invalid patient should be taken to serve food daintily, and garnish dishes appropriately.

Barley Water—Take four table-spoons of barley well washed, add three cupfuls of boiling water and cook twenty-five minutes. Strain sweeten and flavor to taste.

Oatmeal Gruel—Take four table-spoons of oatmeal, mix with one-half cupful of cold water, add to a pint of boiling water with a little salt to season. Boil slowly for twenty minutes, strain and serve, adding hot milk if desired.

Beef-Tea Jelly—Cover with cold water one-third of a box of gelatin; let stand one hour, then pour over two cupfuls of boiling beef tea, season to taste and set aside to cool in small cups. Serve with toasted crackers.

Gait's-Foot Broth—Cut up two calf's feet and put them with two quarts of water, a carrot finely cut, a stalk of celery or a few leaves, salt and mace to season. Simmer for three hours until half of the liquid is cooked away; strain and add more seasoning if needed.

Egg Gruel—Beat the whites of three eggs to a stiff froth, add one cupful of fresh barley gruel; allow it to stand over heat at simmering temperature; add such seasoning as desired. Turn into a mold and serve with cream when cold.

Bianc Mange—Add three table-spoonsfuls of gelatin to a quart of new milk, boil until all is dissolved, then pour in a cupful of cream, flavor to taste, using nutmeg or lemon; add sugar to sweeten and pour into a mold; set on ice to cool.

In serving hot foods see that all dishes are warmed; for cold foods have them served well chilled or frozen.

Ruskyn says: First feed people, then clothe and house people, then the fundamental thing is to feed them.

As "armies travel on their stomachs" so an active brain must have a well-nourished body.

OUR DAILY FOOD

To begin the day a little seasonal fruit is always appropriate. Oranges, grapefruit and tangerines are plentiful. A dish of well-cooked cereal follows the fruit, hot cakes with sausage, bacon or ham are always good foods to serve and well liked. Followed by a doughnut and coffee, one is sustained until the noon meal.

A good luncheon menu is hot cheese sandwiches, a simple lettuce salad, or a dish of radishes and green onions, baking powder biscuit with a little canned fruit and a few cookies for dessert.

If the main meal is served at night the luncheon should be quite simple, but nourishing.

For dinner one may have a steak, or a roast of some kind, a baked stuffed fish, fricassée fowl, or baked ham—a few of the many good main dishes from which to choose.

With the stuffed fish serve hollandaise sauce with cauliflower, parsley, potatoes, a fresh salad or sliced cucumbers, a small custard and coffee with small cakes.

With the broiled steak serve baked potatoes, creamed onions or buttered carrots and lettuce salad, with an ice cream served with a sauce, either maple or caramel, and coffee.

Spinach With Cream—Wash three pounds of spinach and put to cook in a saucepan, cover without adding more water and cook, stirring occasionally; after twelve minutes put through a sieve, saving all the liquor; add four tablespoonsfuls of butter, salt and pepper to taste and cook for fifteen minutes or until perfectly tender. Now add three tablespoonsfuls of cream, mix well and serve piled on a hot platter with croutons for garnish, surrounding the spinach.

Chicken Purée—Take the white meat from the breast of a chicken which has been roasted; add a tablespoonful of bread crumbs. Pound the bread and meat, mixing with a little of the broth to moisten, season to taste, heat and serve in small cups.

Baked Veal Outlets—Lay in a heated, buttered casserole one and one-half pounds of veal steak, add one cupful of seasoned stock, then spread with a stuffing made of two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one onion chopped fine, a beaten egg, a tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Cover and cook for a half hour in a hot oven, then uncover and cook until brown. Serve with spiced gooseberries or any sour jelly.

Encourage Reforestation

The wealth of any community is subtly bound up in its forests. Rainfall, irrigation, power, climate are all modified by the hills and their covering.

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help," sang the poet.

And it was not an idle nor even a poetical fancy.

Underlying it was a deep practical truth which the man of affairs is slowly coming to realize.

Let it be recorded to the honor of the California Redwood Association that it is one of the first in the field to translate this truth into terms of action.—Charles Caldwell Dobie.

Old Diablo Slipping?

It is discovered that the peak of Mt. Diablo is out of alignment and does not "track" since the shake-up of 1906. This is in accordance with observations made by officers of the United States Geodetic Surveys, who state that the peak of Mt. Diablo has shifted five feet to the southward since 1906. This geographic change is regarded as of immense importance, since land holdings and areas are directly affected.

Misrepresenting Farmers

Farmers of Iowa ought to be the first to set the seal of disapproval on the generally circulated lie that they are a class of paupers. There is no more self-respecting independent, life loving man in the world than the representative farmer in Iowa. Those who have stuck to farming and did not get caught in the wiles of the stock seller or in land speculation are the most substantial men in the community. It makes a sensible man with good digestion tired to see this tommyrot about the impoverished Iowa farmers.—Carroll (Iowa) Herald.

Steinmetz Said "Impossible"

Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, the philosophical socialist, had no delusions on the question of governmental operation of industries.

"Apparently everything favors public operation," he said, "low interest charges, no dividends to pay, no legislation to fear—and yet government, state and municipal operation is a failure. Successful government operation of industries, railroads or public utilities is inherently impossible under a democratic form of government."

Should Work Both Ways

If the government can fix the price of wheat it ought to be in position to unfix the price of coal.—Newark (N. J.) Star Eagle.

It is getting so that the church is about the only safe place to go to on Sunday.

Swallow's Nests as Medicine.

The Chinese highly prize the swallow's nest for its supposed medicinal value. The doctors of China regard it as a tonic capable of restoring a patient's lost vigor, and it is also said to be efficacious in curing lung diseases and smallpox. As a table delicacy the article is also highly considered, and a sumptuous Chinese dinner is not complete without a dish of this, to the celestial taste, palatable food. Swallow's nests are rich in albuminous matter. They are produced chiefly in the vicinity of the Malay Archipelago, such as Borneo, Sumatra, Java and the Philippines.

Manufacturing Comfort

is the pleasant task of the

P. G. and E.

FIGURATIVELY, the P. G. and E. stretches its tireless arms across arid wastes, harnesses streams and makes light, power and convenience responsive to the touch of your finger.

It fashions huge tanks, lays pipe, makes gas—and carries heat to the home, or industry.

With courteous grace it supplies power to assist Mi-lady with housework. Its brawny strength propels speeding trains, whirls massive wheels of factories, and helps the farmer in his toil.

In its service to housewife, rancher, manufacturer and merchant, it performs many remarkable feats. Transporting 220,000 volts of electricity at one time, for the great distance of 208 miles, is but one of several achievements that have brought fame to this Company.

The P. G. and E. assures comfort for you and makes it attainable at low cost. Health, happiness and progress are dependent upon the fidelity with which it serves.
